A unique experience

Inspired by the Art de Vivre of Duke d'Aumale

— Immerse Yourself in French Hospitality —

Exclusive project

Located at 50 km from Paris, Château de Chantilly is one of the finest jewels in the crown of France's cultural heritage. It is the work of a man with an extraordinary destiny: Henri d'Orléans, Duke of Aumale, son of the last King of France, Louis-Philippe. This prince, who is considered to be the greatest collector of his time, made Chantilly the showcase for his countless masterpieces and precious manuscripts.

Henri Eugène Philippe Louis d'Orléans,
Duke of Aumale (1822 – 1897).
